Domaine de la Romanée-Conti, referred to as The Domaine, for its lead status in the Burgundy region and for its unmatched collection of all grand cru vineyards. While quality has always been of benchmark class here, a shift to organic and then biodynamic farming, careful selection, and improvements in the winery, have seen that level rise even further in the past two decades. The enviable collection includes two monopoles – La Romanée-Conti and La Tâche, and in each of Richebourg, Romanée-St-Vivant, Grands Échezeaux and Échezeaux they are the largest owner – and scale too has its advantages for quality. Since 2009 they have added Corton.

Domaine Armand Rousseau, and specifically, the winemaking talents of Éric Rousseau, who has followed right behind his talented father Charles, set the benchmark for the grands crus vineyards, Chambertin and Chambertin-Clos de Bèze. Chambertin-Clos de Bèze is a wine of deep complexity with feminine character and subtlety; known as being the 'Queen'. Meanwhile, Chambertin, regarded as the 'King' with its more powerful, concentrated and expressive flavours. The sweet spot here is the Gevrey-Chambertin 1er Cru 'Clos St. Jacques'. If there is one vineyard in Burgundy that should be elevated to grand cru status, this is the one.

Domaine Comte Georges de Vogüé is one of the finest and most ancient domaines in Burgundy, emblematic of the noble finesse of Chambolle-Musigny, the domaine is the largest owner of Musigny Grand Cru. In the same family for twenty generations it is today owned by the Comte George de Vogüé's granddaughters Claire de Causans and Marie de Ladoucette. From Musigny Grand Cru, three wines are made – Musigny 'Vieilles Vignes' from vines more than 25 years in age; Chambolle-Musigny 1er Cru, made 100% from young vine fruit but 'declassified' one step by the domaine; and a very special rare white – Musigny Blanc. The Bonnes-Mares comes from the 'terres rouges' part of the vineyard giving this grand cru its more sumptuous and generous expression.

The name "Henry-Frédéric Roch" you likely know as his signature appears on bottles of DRC because he is part owner of this domaine. His grandfather was the highly regarded Henry Leroy, and his aunt is Lalou Bize-Leroy. But, Henry-Frédéric Roch was a force in wine in his own domaine for his commitment to nature and respect for Pinot Noir. He established Domaine Prieuré-Roch in 1988 at the age of 26 years, by buying parcels of vineyards that DRC was selling in order to acquire the large section of RSV that Domaine Marey-Monge had been farming. Domaine Prieuré-Roch is a domaine devoted to organic farming and being mindful of the human effect on nature and its development and cultivation.

Domaine Amiot-Servelle is a small family domaine located in the heart of Chambolle-Musigny, with 8ha under vine, including an enviable seven different Chambolle 1ers Crus. Christian Amiot & Elisabeth Servelle married and formed the domaine from family holdings in 1990, and today it is run by their daughter Prune and son Antoine. Organic farming began in 2003 and they have been certified since 2008. The emphasis is on fully ripe healthy fruit, with careful sorting, a proportion of whole bunches used judged vintage by vintage, cuvée by cuvée, and moderate use of new oak to support rather than dominate the style. The aim here is to express each terroir clearly.

We are a big fan of Maison Joseph Drouhin and their refined, understated style. The wines are never pushed, never over-extracted, they are always expressive, elegant, and pure. At the top of the range, Drouhin makes Montrachet Grand Cru 'Marquis de Laguiche'. Made entirely from the Puligny side of the vineyard, the Montrachet character is there completely – that combination of Chevalier's minerality and strength, and Bâtard's fullness, roundness and charm.

Petrus sits at the top of the Pomerol plateau on a unique terroir of iron-rich clay which gives Merlot its ultimate expression, a rich sumptuousness with both power and finesse. It is fortunate for the wine lover too that this estate has been so well managed for decades, by the Moueix family who have run it, and by Jean-Claude Berrouet, with such talent for winemaking, who produced the 44 vintages through to 2007. (Pétrus is now made by his son, Olivier). This is a Pomerol that benefits from time in the cellar.

Château Lafleur has been special to us for many years, and we have conducted over the years numerous vertical tasting dinners, demonstrating to tremendous depth, character and longevity of these wines. The Guinaudeau family's ancestor Henri Greloud bought this rectangular 4.5ha parcel in Pomerol in 1872 – a 'garden vineyard' comprising three terroirs for this label – sandy-clay gravels, clay gravels, and gravelly sands. It's this rare combination of different soils within this small plot, high on the Pomerol plateau, and through equal parts Merlot and Bouchet (the Cabernet Franc propagated from massale selections here through generations), that the natural intensity, aromatic and flavour complexity, the power and finesse unique to Lafleur can be delivered.

The quality at Château Latour has always been high. To taste your way back through the classics is to taste first growth Pauillac of immense depth, strength and finesse. But it is also fair to say that since François Pinault's ownership, and Frédéric Engerer's leadership there – more than a quarter century now – the absolute full potential of Château Latour has been revealed. We have been astonished by what has been achieved – Latour is a masterclass in grand vision, and the implemented by attention to a multitude of details large and small.

Biondi-Santi is the inventor of Brunello di Montalcino, the most noble expression of the Sangiovese grape in Tuscany. An aristocratic family, they were the first to pioneer a fine red wine capable of long ageing that would sit alongside the greatest wines of Europe. As creators of the tradition, they have kept it, and in a region sometimes better known today for heavier, opaque fruit-bomb style wines, Biondi-Santi produce refreshingly clear, fragrant, flavourful wines of class and nuance, with great balance, morishness and freshness. The 'Riserva' label represents less than 10% of the production, only from the oldest vines, and only in great vintages made the traditional way, long-aged in Slavonian oak botti.
